

David A. Padgett

David A. Padgett is an Associate Professor of Geography, and Director of the Geographic Information Sciences (GISc) Laboratory (<http://faculty.tnstate.edu/dpadgett/tnstategislab.htm>) at Tennessee State University (TSU) in Nashville, Tennessee. He is currently in the process of building a Geography/ Environmental Justice curriculum with a strong emphasis upon service learning. He has previously developed and taught geography and geographic information systems (GIS)-related courses at Austin Peay State University (Tennessee) and Oberlin College (Ohio). He has conducted GIS workshops at several colleges and universities including Howard University, Virginia State University, and the Charles R. Drew University of Science and Medicine. Since establishing the GISc Lab in the summer of 2000, Padgett has supervised several undergraduate research assistants on a variety of service learning projects the topics of which include: community-based global positioning systems (GPS) mapping to improve public transit accessibility, GIS-supported urban forest conservation, and GIS-based impact assessment of an interstate highway upon a predominantly African American community. The GISc Lab has developed working relationships with a variety of grassroots groups, non-profit organizations, and government agencies. Many of the students Padgett has taught over the past 15 years have graduated and are now gainfully employed in GIS-related occupations.

Since 1992 Padgett has been the Owner and Chief Consultant of GEO-Mental, a multi-faceted environmental consulting firm - <http://www.myspace.com/geomental> He is the Project Manager and Co-Author of "The Best Cities for African Americans" cover feature series for Black Enterprise Magazine - May 2007, July 2004, and July 2001, and the author of "Nashville: An Experience in Metropolitan Governance" in Growing Smarter: Achieving Livable Communities, Environmental Justice, and Regional Equity, Robert D. Bullard (Ed.), Paper / February 2007 - <http://mitpress.mit.edu/catalog/item/default.asp?type=2&tid=11185>
